THE Contented Farmer:

I pay my Taxes, Peace or War,
And wish all well at Gibraltar,
But mind a Cardinal no more
Than any other haslet More;
Grant me ye Toe'rie but health's refe,
And let who will the World contest.
The King and the Miller.

Here happy a feast does the Miller rejoice, Who would be no greater nor pass more to Josiah Mill & Humphry Drax.

Note: The text contains a musical score and is written in English. It describes a scene where Josiah Mill enjoys a feast, expressing his contentment and satisfaction with his current position. The piece includes verses that reflect on the virtues of simplicity and contentment, contrasting with the奢华 of court life. The music is composed for the flute, as indicated by the notation.
