O say can you see by the dawn’s early light
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming
Whose broad stripes and bright stars thru’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming
And the rockets’ red glare the bombs bursting in air Gave proof through the night that our flag still was there
O! say does that star spangled banner yet wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave

On the shore dimly seen thro' the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows half conceals half discloses;
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines in the stream,
'Tis the star spangled banner O! long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country shall leave us no more,
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps polluti on
No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave
And the star spangled banner in triumph doth wave
And the star spangled banner o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

O thus be it ever when freemen shall stand,
Between their lovd home, and the wars desolation,
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land,
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserv'd us a nation.
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto — In God is our trust;
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.
