THE DEATH OF TAYLOR (Sung by)
OSSIAN E. DODGE ESQ.

POETRY AND MUSIC COMPOSED AND RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED TO THE FAMILY
Of the beloved and Lamented President
BY JOHN P. ORDWAY.

SONG.
25c. nett.
QUARTETTE.

HE DEPARTED THIS LIFE JULY 9TH, 1850
AT HALF PAST 10 P.M. AGED 56 YEARS.

BOSTON
Published by A. J. P. ORDWAY, 239 Washington St.
New York WATERS & BERRY, 447 Broadway.
THE DEATH OF TAYLOR.

Poetry and Music by J. P. Ordway.

Dolce e Legato

He's breath'd his last—no more we'll see His honest brow and man-ly form; Chant the sad strain with melody, And bear the sacred notes along. America has Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1850 by A. J. P. Ordway in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Mass.

lost a friend, On whom her fondest hopes were cast; O'er Passionate

land and sea the tidings send, Brave Taylor's gone! he's Espressivo

breath'd his last, Brave Taylor's gone! he's breath'd his last.

Tenero e legato

rall:
Not on the tented field he died, Where nobly freedom's cause he urged, But with his dear ones by his side, To sleep in peace, and rest in God. Earth's highest honor kept he true In sacred trust— with heart sincere; We're
As mourners, too, let's chant the strain
Of sorrow for the brave and good—
For e'en his foes could not refrain
To call him honest—well they should.
His dying words, "I am prepared,"
Shew well his duty nobly done;
His only pain was that he cared
For those he left behind so soon.