2^d.v Lo here the golden harvest bend's to seek the reapers toil lo 1st.v A-gain'tis In-de-pen-dence calls to Freemen ev-er dear her here ex-ul-ting na-ture lends her magic to the soil here voice that rose from dangers hall's now glad-some greets the ear bright welcome welcome Liberty that from the sky didst spring no glows our country's morning gleam more bright may noon-day shine long home on earth till forc'd to flee be-neath Co-lum-bia's wing long unclouded may it beam e'er eve-ning's dull de-cline. D.C.
et CHO:

8.

Oh! hallow'd be this days proud name,*
When thousand years are fled;
Green green immortal live their fame,
Who bravely spoke and bled.
When haughty Britain's Lion flew,
To rend the patriot's breast;
When spite his rage in glory grew,
The Eagle of the west. CHORUS.

4.

Ye Arts with knowledge here entwine,
Your eyes exalted raise,
And eloquence and numbers join
In free wing'd freedoms praise,
Let woman joyous rapture sing,
While man attends the lay,
And beauty blooming garlands bring,
To deck Columbia's day. CHORUS.
