For me my fair

Andante

wreath has wove where rival flows in union meet for me my fair a wreath has wove where rival flows in union meet as oft the kiss'd the gift of love her breath gave sweetness to the sweet her breath gave sweetness to the sweet her breath gave sweetness to the sweet.

2
A bee within a damask rose
Had crept, the nectar'd dew to sip,
But lesser sweets the thief foregoes,
And fixes on Louisa's lip.

4
For as my fair one's lips I prest,
Which love and extacy impart,
The sting struck deep within my breast,
And fix'd its potency in my heart.

3
I saw the little pilferer play
Mid balmy sweets, to her confind,
And drove th'intruding guest away,
But ah! he left the sting behind;

5
There does the blissful torture lie,
And there for ever shall remain,
There's rapture in the rising sigh,
Elysian pleasure in the pain.
