THE SPIDER AND THE FLY.

By Henry Russell.

COMICO

A TEMPO.

"Will you walk into my parlor" said a

Spider to a Fly 'Tis the prettiest little parlor that ever you did spy.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1844, by W.C. Peters, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Kentucky.
You have only got to pop your head within side of the door You'll see so many curious things you never saw before

Will you will you will you will you walk in Mister Fly loco.
SECOND VERSE.

Will you grant me one sweet kiss? said the spider to the fly; To taste your charming lips, I've a curiosity. But if perchance our lips should meet, a wager I would lay, Of ten to one you would not often let them come away.

Will you walk in Mister Fly? Will you walk in Mister Fly? Will you walk in Mister Fly?
Third Verse.

For the last time now I ask you, will you walk in Mister Fly! No, if I do may I be shot I'm off so now good bye. Then up he springs, but both his wings were in the web caught fast; The Spider laugh'd Ah! Ah! my boy, I've caught you safe at last.

Will you, will you walk out Mister Fly. Will you will you, will you, will you, walk out Mister Fly.

Now all young men take warning, but this foolish little Fly. Pleasure is the Spider's web to catch you, it will try. And all...

---you may think that advice is quite a bore, you're lost if you stand parlying, outside of pleasure's door.

Will you will you walk out Mister Fly Will you, will you, will you, will you walk out Mister Fly.
