Sweet morn of life.

NEW YORK PUBLISHED BY JAQUES & BROTHER, 385, BROADWAY.

LITH. OF SARONY, N.Y.

WILLIAM HALL & SON, 239, BROADWAY.

Words and arrangement by Henri

Music by Reissiger.

Andantino

p soave cres

p cres

Sweet mor_ning of life, in thy clear gol_den light, What visions of beau_ty en_ trance the rapt sight! When the guileless young eye, ere its brightness be past, Sees in

Entered according to Act of Congress AD1850 by Jaques & Brother in the Clerks Office of the District Court of the South.n dis.t of New Yor.

father and mother a love that shall last.

p

cres.

shall that sim _ _ ple hope be vain, That bids the

p

lov'd one look a _ gain! O joy _ _ ous sight! O

p

p

sweet con _ verse! When lov _ _ ing hearts of heav'n re_

rit:

cres:

rit:

a tempo:

_hearse. Sweet morning of life, in thy clear, gol_den light, What

a tempo:

visions of beauty en _ trance the rapt sight, When the guileless young eye, ere its brightness be past, sees in father and mother a love that shall last.

2nd Verse.

Blest ob ject of love! may thy gladsome young day ever thus, be lit up by heavn's own holy ray, Then soon may be seen in thy quick coming youth The smile that shall win by its love and its truth. O

p cres:

cherish'd hour of bliss, when first The dawn of love up-

p

on me burst; Re - mem - - ber'd now and ev - - - er

rit: a tempo.

more The joy that prompts the strain I pour'. Blest

rit: a tempo.

Boxes 106 +
No. 1

object of love may thy gladsome young day ever thus, be lit up by heavn's own holy ray; Then soon may be seen in thy quick-coming youth, The smile that shall win by its love and its truth.

f p