Moderato.

1. A trunk standing open and near it a child, En-chanted by what meets its sight.
2. My darling, those two little relics of blue, Be-long'd to your sis-ter I rence.

The contents a-round her dis-or-der-ly piled. Each who's gone to a land where a lit-tle blue shoe Is object a source of delight..... Then mother appearing and standing be-something that never is seen..... We'll hide them away; Pa-pa soon will be hind, Sheds tears as she silently views....... Lying there on the here; Quick! Quick! we have no time to lose....... They bring back the carpet her baby's last find, Two little blue little shoes....... mem'ries of so much that's dear, Two little blue little shoes.......

REFRAIN.

Two little blue little shoes.... Two little feet, where are they?.......

Gone with the patter, the laughter and chatter, Of baby who left her one day.......

Give them to mother, my darling, Relics too sacred to lose.......

Tie them together, those two bits of leather, Two little blue little shoes....
