Oboe Solo

Moderato

How sweet are the Flowers that grow by yon Fountain, And sweet are the Cowslips that pp

span_gle the Grove, And sweet is the Breeze that blows o-ver the Mountain, but sweet-er by far is the Lad that I love, I'll weave a gay Garland a fresh blowing

Garland with Lil-ies and Roses and sweet blooming Po-sies, I'll weave a gay

Garland a fresh blowing Garland with Lillies and Roses and sweet blooming Posies, To give to the Lad my Heart tells me I love.

It was down in the Vale where the Sweet Torza gliding,
 In murmuring Stream ripples thro' the dark Grove,
 I own'd what I felt all my passion confiding,
 To ease the fond sighs of the Lad that I love,
 Then I'll weave a gay Garland a fresh blowing Garland,
 With Lillies and Roses and sweet blooming Posies,
 To give to the Lad my Heart tells me I love.
