

No 3

Harvey 11

CYCLOPEDIA OF MUSIC
Miscellaneous Series of Songs N^o 88.
THE CELEBRATED AIR

S
E
S
E A
E

W. Page

(The Melody of this Song was marked on the Wall by Col^l Pestal (A Victim to Russian Tyranny) the night before his Execution.)

S O N G, with an Accompaniment for the
PIANO FORTE.

Price Threepence.

London, Published by B. WILLIAMS, 30 (Fountain C^t) Cheapside &
170, GREAT DOVER ROAD.

The Words & Accompaniment of this Song are Copyright.
JUST PUBLISHED. PESTAL WALTZ... PR. THREEPENCE.

PESTALL.

The Words adapted to the melody which Colonel Pestall (a victim to Russian tyranny) marked upon the wall of his cell the night before his execution, and the Piano-Forte accompaniment by J. J. HAITE.

VOICE.

Andante.

PIANO-FORTE.

Con espressione.

2nd Verse. See! the breaking

1st Verse. Ah! 'twas but a dawn - the last that e'er will rise for me.

Death thou bring'st me life! - in heav'n I dream, And yet 'twas bliss once more to view,

Thro' my Dungeon's gloom, the brave, the soon shall join the free!

Pierce my heart ye slaves that do a Tyrant's will!

beau - ti - ful, the true.

Me - mo - ry has still a ling'ring charm for me,

Strike a faithful breast one that cannot fear. Lay my helpless head beneath the frozen ground,

Friends who lov'd me well. scenes of cloudless joy, Sports that woo'd me to the distant woods a-way,

None dare shed a tear! Hark! again those sounds! I hear sweet voices in the Hopes without alloy. Soon ye chains we part, for gentle voices in the air, Wel-coming my soul from those dark regions of despair.

air, Bid my soul pre-pare to leave these regions of despair.

1st Verse.

2nd Verse.

pp