Moderato.

Oh, the bright dreams of child-hood have glid - ed a - way, Though the years still roll on-ward I oft have re-call'd

The hours we were hap - py and The days that are long a - go young,

past;

When we sat round the fire at the close of the day,
And the first hours of child - hood when I was en - thrall'd

How
