Chas. A. Gardner's New Song.

HER FATHER WAS AN AUCTIONEER.
Sung by him in his new comedy CARL THE PEDDLER.
Music by GUSTAVE H. KLINE.

NEW YORK,
Published by T.B. HARMS & Co. 819 Broadway.
Copyright 1885 by T.B. Harms & Co.
Her Father was an Auctioneer.

Words by CHAS. A. GARDNER. Music by GUSTAVE H. KLINE.

Tempo di Schottische

1.

2.

Oh, there's something now I want to say, And I don't mind telling
I met her in the park one day, She smiled and winked her

Copyright MDCCCLXXXV by T. B. Harms & Co
you,

'Bout a little girl with a little brown curl. She Sitting on a seat she looked so sweet. I lives on the avenue. She passed me on the street, one could not pass her by. The flowers they were fresh and day bright. In the spring-time of the year. My

The birds were singing near. That heart was in a flame 'Till I could find her name. And her father was an Auctioneer.

Sunny afternoon My heart was taken soon. By the daughter of an Auctioneer. She find him in all kinds of places I tell you now he was an Auctioneer O yes just think that she is a daisy When her father came and struck me on the ear O yes

CHORUS

Going going going gone List'ning to the bids I hear, I love that girl with a little brown curl Her father was an Auctioneer That's so I'm ---