THOU HAST LEARNED TO LOVE ANOTHER.

BALLAD.

Composed by

CHARLES SLADE.

Andante.

Andante con espressione.

Thou hast learned to love an - other, Thou hast bro - ken ev vow; We have part - ed from each other And my heart is lone - ly now; I have taught my looks to shun thee, When cold - ly we have met, For an - other's smile hath won thee, And thy voice I must for-get. Oh! is it well to sever This heart from thine for- ever? Can I forget thee? never! Farewell! farewell forever!

3^d Verse. We have met and we have parted, But I

2^d Verse. We have met in scenes of pleasure, We have not uttered scarce a word, Like a guilty thing I started, When thy well known voice I met in halls of pride, I have seen thy new found treasure, I have gazed upon thy heard; Thy looks were stern and altered, And thy words were cold and high, How my bride, I have marked the timid lustre Of thy downcast, happy eye, I have traitor cour - age faltered, When I dared to meet thine eye. Oh! wo - man's love will seen thee gaze up-on her, For - get - ting I was by. I grieve that e'er I grieve her, And wo - man's pride will leave her; Life has fled when love de - ceives her, Fare - met thee, Fain, fain would I for - get thee, 'Twere fol - ly to re - gret thee, Fare - well, farewell for - ev - er!
