Lost on the Steamer "Stonewall"

or

MAMMA! WHY DON'T PAPA COME HOME?

Words by J. Murphy.

Music by G.W. Brown.

Published by Balmer & Weber, No. 296, Fifth Street, St. Louis.
Lost on the Steamer

STONEWALL,

Mamma! why don't Papa come home?

Words by J. S. MURPHY. Music by G. W. BROWN.

4. Alas, Mamma, I know it now, Papa was in that throng.............

1. Mamma! why don't Papa come home? why does he stay away.............? He
2. God bless you, dearest, darling boy, Papa will never come.............; You'll
3. List, darling to a tale of woe; while on her downward way............., A that is why you've sigh'd so much, and wept the whole night long............. But has been gone from us, you know, a week since yesterday.............; And never see his face again, nor kiss him welcome home............. He's beat caught fire, no human pow'r the raging flames could stay.............; The now, Mamma! dry up your tears, and cease your sobs and sighs. For then you sigh and sob, Mamma, as if your heart would break. And "Stonewall" on that night was doom'd! No help was nigh to save! A-by and by we'll meet Pa-pa far up above the skies. For all last night you wept, Mamma, and kept me wide awake; And in that fairer, better land, beyond the stars on high; With-las, my child, but very few escaped a wat'ry grave. A-by and by, we'll meet Pa-pa far up above the skies.

all last night you wept, Mamma, and kept me wide awake.
in that fairer, better land, beyond the stars on high.
las, my child, but very few escaped a wat'ry grave.
an tempo.
Chorus.
Con espressione.

AIR.

But now, Mam-ma! dry up your tears, and cease your sobs and sighs.

ALTO.

But now, Mam-ma! dry up your tears, cease.

TENOR.

But now, Mam-ma! dry up your tears, cease.

BASS.

But now, Mam-ma! dry up your tears, cease.

PIANO.

For by and by we’ll meet Pa-pa, far above the skies.

For by and by we’ll meet Pa-pa, far, far, far above the skies.

For by and by we’ll meet Pa-pa, far, far, far above the skies.

For by and by we’ll meet Pa-pa, far, far, far above the skies.